

Supplementary Material

Advantages of Induced Circular Dichroism spectroscopy for qualitative and quantitative analysis of solution-phase cyclodextrin host-guest complexes.

Márta Kraszni¹, Balázs Balogh², István Mándity² and Péter Horváth^{1*}

¹ Semmelweis University, Department of Pharmaceutical Chemistry, Hőgyes Endre utca 9,
1092 Budapest, Hungary

² Semmelweis University, Department of Organic Chemistry, Hőgyes Endre utca 7, 1092
Budapest, Hungary

*to whom correspondence should be addressed:

Dr. Péter Horváth

Department of Pharmaceutical Chemistry, Semmelweis University

H-1092 Budapest, Hőgyes E. u. 9, Hungary

Phone/Fax: +3612170891

E-mail: horvath.peter@semmelweis.hu

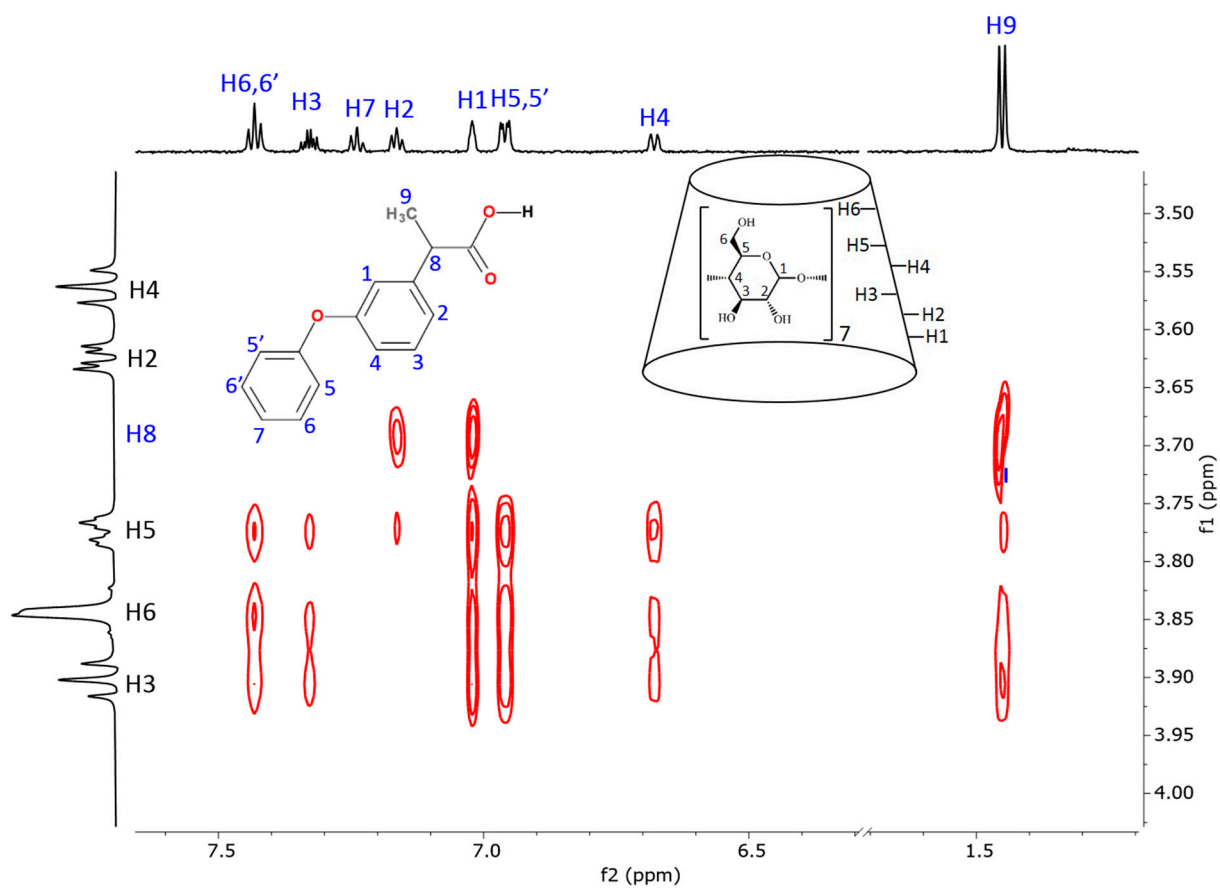

Figure S1 The ROESY NMR spectrum of fenopropfen-BCyD 1:5 concentration ratio in 90% H₂O/10% methanol-d₄. Assignment of the signals in blue is for fenopropfen, in black is for BCyD.