Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

With companies' rapidly increasing commitment to sustainable activities worldwide, sustainability accounting now fulfills essential roles in corporate disclosures. However, these disclosures' voluntary and non-financial nature creates unique specific performance measurement concerns and related reporting issues, making sustainability accounting distinct from traditional financial reporting. The increasing expansion of digital technologies has significantly changed most economic activities and professions.

In this Special Issue, original research articles and reviews are welcome, research areas including (but not limited to) the following: 1. The use of digital technologies in enhancing sustainability accounting; 2. Sustainable business through digital transformation; 3. Relationships between sustainability accounting and organizational reporting; 4. Integrating digital technologies in sustainability reporting; 5. Increasing the transparency and security of sustainability accounting information through digital transformation; 6. Measuring non-financial performance by using digital technologies.
