Message from the Guest Editors

We are seeking original research and topic-specific reviews in the areas related to but not limited to the three pillars of acute care surgery: trauma, surgical critical care, and emergency general surgery. The focus of this Special Issue is on reviewing the components and scope of acute care surgery encompassing research, education, training, and the clinical care of patients with time-sensitive surgical diseases.

All submitted research will be peer-reviewed and must follow the instructions for preparations of manuscripts. Your contribution to this Special Issue will assist in the continued dissemination of the benefits of this model of care to healthcare systems, providers, and patients who require access to timely surgical care.
