Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues,

Recently, there have been remarkable advances in endoscopic diagnosis and treatment of gastrointestinal neoplasms in accordance with improvements in endoscopic technology. In particular, the application of artificial intelligence (AI) to endoscopic diagnosis and the development of image-enhanced endoscopy (IEE) have markedly progressed, and these have a stronger influence on the clinical diagnosis of gastrointestinal neoplasms. These endoscopic technologies provide opportunities for minimally invasive endoscopic treatment, including endoscopic submucosal dissection (ESD) and endoscopic mucosal resection (EMR). While the technical difficulty of endoscopic treatment was high, many kinds of efforts have improved the security of endoscopic treatment.

Authors can submit original articles, reviews, or short communications. We encourage submissions of papers on topics surrounding the endoscopic diagnosis and treatment of gastrointestinal neoplasms.

Message from the Editorial Board

There has been an explosion of gene and target based research and therapeutics in the multitude of fields that compose clinical medicine. The Journal of Clinical Medicine's (JCM) staff and editorial board are dedicated to providing cutting edge, timely, and peer-reviewed articles covering the diverse subspecialties of clinical medicine. The journal publishes concise, innovative, and exciting research articles as well as clinically significant articles and reviews that are pertinent to the myriad of disciplines within medicine. The articles published are relevant to both primary care physicians and specialists. The journal's full-texts are archived in PubMed Central and indexed in PubMed. Please consider submitting your manuscripts for publication to our journal and check us out on-line!
