Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues,

In the present day, imaging represents a key strategy contributing to the diagnosis and management of cardiac arrhythmias. It especially includes non-invasive imaging techniques such as echocardiography, cardiac computed tomography, and cardiac magnetic resonance, as well as invasive technologies such as electroanatomic mapping and intracardiac echocardiography. The integration of information derived from these different exams allows for an in-depth analysis of the disease and, as a result, enables one to choose the best patient management strategies. Furthermore, the online integration of several techniques (invasive and non-invasive) is now possible. We are seeking papers from cardiologists and radiologists who deal with cardiac imaging and contributions from cardiologists with expertise regarding cardiac arrhythmias.
