Message from the Guest Editors

The purpose of this Special Issue is to highlight the impact of pandemics on human health, the lifestyle during the lockdown, the presentation of virological, immunological, clinical aspects and emerging therapeutic strategies that could stop the current pandemic and improve prevention of future pandemics.

Therefore, we invite you to send scientific manuscripts, such as original research, reviews, systematic reviews and meta-analyses, mini-reviews, clinical studies, case presentations or letters to the editor, which provide a platform for presenting scientific knowledge about the vehicle and new pandemics, the solutions found by scientists to stop them, comparisons between old and recent pandemics and protective perspectives.
