Message from the Guest Editors

Aim: This Special Issue of Religions will explore the emotional turn in religious studies. This Special Edition seeks contributions from various fields to provide a multidisciplinary perspective on emotions and their role in religious experiences, beliefs, and practices.

Scope: The emotional turn in religious studies has offered new insights into the subjective impact of and motivations behind religion and spirituality. The aim of this collection of articles is to provide

- (1) reviews of the main findings of the role of emotions in religious studies,
- (2) foster interreligious dialogue on varieties of religious emotional experiences,
- (3) develop theoretical and philosophical frameworks as a foundation for future research,
- (4) connect religious emotions more directly with empirical theology,
- (5) discuss the role of self-transcendent emotions in a variety of religious experiences.

Please submit a 500-word abstract by 1 March 2024 to <ythai@calbaptist.edu>, <tfrederick@calbaptist.edu>, or <sdunbar@calbaptist.edu>. If accepted, please submit the full 5000+ word manuscript by 15 May 2024 for peer review.

Message from the Editorial Board

Fresh developments in the disciplines that consistently make significant contributions to our understanding of religious personality, authority, devotion, and community - disciplines ranging from psychology, sociology, and anthropology to history, art history, philosophy, literary criticism, and political science – fuel general, as well as scholarly, interest in the world's religions.

Religions is inviting innovative and comparative contributions. Please consider Religions as an exceptional, exciting enterprise ready to reward your trust, attention, and participation.
