Call for Papers

Call for Papers

Dear Colleagues,

You are invited to contribute a research article or a comprehensive review for consideration and publication in Societies (ISSN 2075-4698). Societies is an online open access journal providing an advanced forum for studies related to social sciences and humanities.

Manuscripts prepared in Microsoft Word or LaTeX can be submitted to the Editorial Office online at www.mdpi.com. Detailed instructions for authors are also available online:

www.mdpi.com/journal/societies/instructions/

Societies is published in open access format—research articles, reviews and other contents are released on the Internet immediately after acceptance. The scientific community and the general public can access the content for free as soon as it is published.

Societies is a new journal and publication fees are fully waived for papers submitted in 2012. However, a fee of 250 CHF may apply for those articles that need major editing and formatting and/or English editing.

We would be pleased to welcome you as one of our authors.

Aims & Scope

Societies is an international and interdisciplinary scholarly open access journal that brings together the social sciences and humanities to enhance our scientific understanding of the social realm, from ancient times to the future.

It publishes original research articles, reviews, commentaries, and short notes that are relevant to the study of past, present and emerging societies. There is no restriction on the length of the papers.

The scope of Societies includes:

- social constructions of gender, race and class
- language and culture
- work and economic systems
- social, political and legal structures
- education, health and social welfare
- community life and civil society
- urbanization and industrialization
- science and technology
- identity, citizenship and the state
- diasporas and transnational dispersions
- religion and spirituality
- death, dying and the afterlife
- crime and criminality
- war, terrorism and genocide
- environmental degradation, climate change, pandemics
- social order, disorder and utopian societies
- globalization

Societies regularly publishes special issues on relevant and timely topics. Be sure to check our website for an updated list of special issues: www.mdpi.com/journal/societies/

Open Access. What Does It Really Mean?

Open access is mainly a response to what is known as the serials crisis: yearly increasing journal subscription prices, which make subscription-based journals increasingly difficult to afford.

Already now, many university libraries around the world have had to cancel existing subscriptions, or are unable to keep up with subscribing to new journals, because the cost of publication has risen disproportionately to their budgets.

With open access publishing, the cost of peer-review and production of an article is borne by the institute of the author by payment of a one-time flat fee. Conversely, readers and their institutes are no longer charged for accessing the journals they need.

For researchers, open access brings the convenience of immediate access to the literature that they need—no matter for which university or company they work, or whether they just want to read a paper in their spare time at home.

For authors, open access means a much wider circle of readers due to the easy access to their research papers. The interested general public is also able to access research works, giving higher transparency to the outcome of taxpayer money spent on research.
