Message from the Guest Editor

We invite contributors to examine the ways in which white privilege impacts any and all members of multiracial families, including family members who are white-appearing and therefore have access to (some) white privilege, but might not identify as white. We define multiracial families broadly, including interracial couples, monoracial parents raising multiracial children, and families with transracial adoptees. We also welcome research that explores when family members, such as partners or multiracial children or adults, call attention to and/or resist white privilege in multiracial families. Additionally, we are interested in studies in which white privilege is restricted as a result of a white person being in an interracial relationship and/or multiracial family.

Message from the Editorial Board

Genealogy is a scholarly journal that provides a venue for academic, cutting-edge contributions to the interdisciplinary field of genealogy studies. We welcome contributions that examine genealogies of family lineage, use genealogical considerations and methods in examining other historical processes (including migration histories, personal, social, and national identities, and social institutions) or study the construction of genealogical narratives. The journal is also interested in biographical studies and their contribution to the understanding of broader social and historical phenomena.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, ESCI (Web of Science), and many other databases.

Rapid Publication: manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 24.9 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 4.9 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the second half of 2023).
