

Supplementary Figure S1. Relative mRNA abundance of EIF1AX and KDM5B genes, which are known to be upregulated during the major-EGA stage in pig embryos. Different letters indicate statistical differences ($P<0.05$) between developmental stages. These results confirm the proper developmental stages of embryos used in this study with regards to the EGA.