Figure S1. Analytical design. Alpha (α–) diversity represents the number of species in each individual tree. At each elevation beta (β–) diversity represents the turnover between trees and gamma (γ–) the total diversity of a plot. We calculated the average diversity at tree scale ($\bar{\alpha}$-diversity) to perform regression analyses (n = 10) and we compared the β– diversity of each plot.

