Impression while participating in FFF	Effects of participating in FFF	Influence of participation on feeling of being able to act climate-friendly	FFF_Auswirkung Teilnahme auf klimafreundliches Verhalten	Added value of FFF compared to school a lot of people of various backgrounds and age groups are represented there, together they are marching there and are motivated	It is the best incentive for a personal behavioral change and I will continue to act climate friendly at home.	I realized that also a single person can achieve something if everyone does something. As a consequence, this reaches policy, especially the CDU (christ democratic union = conservative party called).	I follow reports in the media that deal with climate change. I refuse car rides and substitute it by public transport or bicycle. I discuss about climate change with friends and family. I act on my friends and on my family to behave in a climate-friendly manner. Before I buy a product, I think twice if I really need it.	That you can put school theory into practice and that you can get active yourself, what hasn't been communicated with k.i.d.Z.21. k.i.d.Z.21 has just given an incentive - but is a great complement which I don't want to forgo.
I was very happy that so many participated, in Munich there were over 10.000 people	not really	The large crowd of people was really motivating.	I discuss about climate change with friends. I act on my friends to behave in a climate-friendly manner. Before I buy a product, I think twice if I really need it.	Since participating in FFF I behave more climate-friendly, because you are involved actively. k.i.d.Z.21 is a duty and informs which is a good complement to FFF. Within the scope of FFF, we additionally organize zero waste-workshops and for do-it-yourself plasticfree cosmetics.
There were 1.500 students in Passau - it's amazing, that so many young people pay attention to this topic and go on the streets.	not really	I realized, that I am able to reduce my emissions myself and similarly, that we can achieve something together.	I began to think more about if my everyday-life decisions are climate-friendly. I discuss about climate change with friends and family .	I realized the political deficiencies, means, what policy doesn't do.
There, I really began to think what climate change actually means. It's getting warmer and soon there will be no snow anymore. My awareness has shifted.	There, I really began to think what climate change actually means. It's getting warmer and soon there will be no snow anymore. My awareness has shifted.	At the beginning I doubted if my action has an influence, then I thought, if every single one acts, it will have an effect.	I refuse car rides and substitute it by public transport or bicycle. Before I buy a product, I think twice if I really need it.	Since participating in FFF I behave more climate-friendly, because you are involved actively. k.i.d.Z.21 is a duty and informs which is a good complement to FFF.
at the protest I finally began to realize what actually happens.	Time is running out, I deal more with the topic of climatechange (watching podcasts, asking, etc.) and it also affects my behavior.	With the large crowd of people I realized that many people are engaged with the topic of climate change.	I act on my friends and on my family to behave in a climate-friendly manner. I don't buy products which are over-packaged. I refuse meat.	In the course of k.i.d.Z.21 we started a creative project called bikeforfuture which gives incentives for biking to school in a competition format. But without FFF, the project had turned out in a boring presentation. Now, we integrate it into FFF while we ring our biking bells at the protests. We contacted firms ourselves for sponsoring and created an own logo and a webpage. The format can also be extended to other schools. FFF motivated to get into action yourself with everyday actions.
great, that in a little town like Eggenfelden 150 people have demonstrated. At the first time, also teachers and partents joined, but not at the second protest, that's a pity. Nevertheless it has to continue and finally the German parliament will pay attention to that.	climate change became more present, you think more about it. Not only among FFF participants, but in the public space in general.	You feel stronger in the group and also effect something in policy.	I act on my friends and on my family to behave in a climate-friendly manner. I refuse car rides and substitute it by public transport or bicycle. I discuss about climate change with friends. Before I buy a product, I think twice if I really need it.	k.i.d.Z.21 offers the tools which go great with FFF. FFF shows that you can stand up for something and that it is important to do something for the future. I think that everyone who participates also behaves climate friendly and that's why I don't understand why our school bans this.
I especially liked the community feeling and that you scream for something good, our future and environment will turn out good	I am dealing more with the topic of climate change.	I don't know	not really	I observed that the FFF- organization team of our class acquires organizational skills, like providing information to policy or the city council.
reduce my own carbon footprint and eat less		The shere participation did not have an effect, but I tried to persuade others to participate in FFF, because there are only 9 years left for reducing our carbon emissions.	I don't buy products which are over-packaged.	with FFF I realized that I can't heavily rely on adults, but I have to act self-responsibly.
at the beginning it was strange	I had a bad conscience when I could not particpate in FFF.		I refuse car rides and substitute it by public transport or bicycle. I act on my friends to behave in a climate-friendly manner.	FFF shows how important, strong and present climate change is. k.i.d.Z.21 is a duty - you do it for the project, for the presentation.
it was great because it was not commonplace	Not really, because I already had a knowledge base before. Indeed, that you can't fully rely on adults and that you have to get into action yourself.	Indeed, because sometimes you have the feeling to be all on your own, but when you are part of the movement and see, that all people fight for a common future, then this is great.	participating in FFF lifted all categories of climate-friendly behavior except for visitin information events
