Supplementary file 1. Heat map of the consistency on feature importance in the random forest classifier by the MDG for every subset, a more saturated colour means a more important feature in the analysis. The heat maps show the consistency when including all features (a), when including only health-risk behaviours (b), and in the case-control analysis (c).