The authors wish to make the following correction to their paper [1], published on 28 June 2019 in Journal of Clinical Medicine. Figure 1A in the published version is incorrect due to the authors' carelessness. The authors sincerely apologize for this mistake to all the readers. The journal office has checked the review history and found all drafts of the article used the correct picture for Figure 1A apart from the final publication version. Thus, this correction does not alter the interpretation or conclusions drawn from the present study.

The published version will be updated online on the article webpage, with a reference to this correction.
