

Supplementary Materials

Highly Effective Self-Propagating Synthesis of Lamellar ZnO-Decorated MnO₂ Nanocrystals with Improved Supercapacitive Performance

Luming Li ^{1,2}, Jing Li ^{2,}, Hongmei Li ¹, Li Lan ¹ and Jie Deng ^{1,}

¹ School of Food and Biological Engineering, Chengdu University, Chengdu 610106, China; liluming@cdu.edu.cn (L.L.); lihongmei@cdu.edu.cn (H.L.); 1020200502@jxstnu.edu.cn (L.L.)

² School of Chemical Engineering, Sichuan University, Chengdu 610065, China

* Correspondence: jingli0726@g.ucla.edu (J.L.); dengjie@cdu.edu.cn (J.D.)

Figure S1. The N₂ adsorption-desorption curves of Mn10Zn and Mn5Zn samples.

Figure S2. Images of energy-dispersion X-ray spectroscopy (EDX) (a) and element mapping of Mn (b), Zn (c) and O (d), respectively.