Figure S7. Flow diagram representing key steps of the developed methods for a: lower throughput with extractable pool measurement and b: for higher throughput applications on comparable tissue types