

The Dynamics of Fund Absorption: Evaluating the Efficacy of EU Structural Funds in Mitigating Regional Inequalities—Calabrian Case

Guzmán A. Muñoz-Fernández ^{1,*}, Angela Bertucci ¹, José E. Ramos-Ruiz ² and Maria Luisa Garo ³

¹ Department of Business Organization, Faculty of Law, Economics and Business Studies, University of Cordoba, 14071 Cordoba, Spain; angebertucci@gmail.com

² Department of Applied Economics, Faculty of Law, Economics and Business Studies, University of Cordoba, 14071 Cordoba, Spain; d22raruj@uco.es

³ Independent Researcher, 89900 Vibo Valentia, Italy; marilu.garo@gmail.com

* Correspondence: guzman.munoz@uco.es

Table S1. Questionnaire variables.

English Version	Responses
How do you perceive the quality of education received during the course?	Low vs. High
How do you overall judge the acquired skill during the master?	Low vs. High
What is the importance of skills acquired during the course for job market?	Not important vs. Important
What was your working status at the time of master enrollment?	Unemployed vs. Employed
If you work, how do you judge your appropriate wage?	Not appropriate vs. Appropriate
If you work at the time of master enrollment, what was you type of working contract?	Temporary vs. Permanent
How long after the master did you find a job?	Over 6 months vs. Within 6 months
How do you perceive the presence of the regional subsidy?	Unusualness vs. Usefulness
Do you work in Calabria?	No vs. Yes
After master's experience, do you want to return to work in Calabria?	No vs. Yes
Respondent's age	Years
Respondent's gender	Male vs. Female
Population density in your Calabria residence area	25,000-50,000 50,000-75,000 75,000-100,000
Respondent's disciplinary area	Health Area, Scientific-technological Area Humanistic-social Area