Despite not posing a risk to humans, African Swine Fever is currently a major threat to the survival of the bearded pig. To stop the spread of African Swine Fever in Malaysian Borneo, the Babi Hutan Project want your sightings of both bearded and domestic pigs – both dead or alive – to understand how far and fast it is spreading. Please help the Babi Hutan Project by reporting any pig sightings using this form. For further information please go to our website at https://www.babihutan.com/

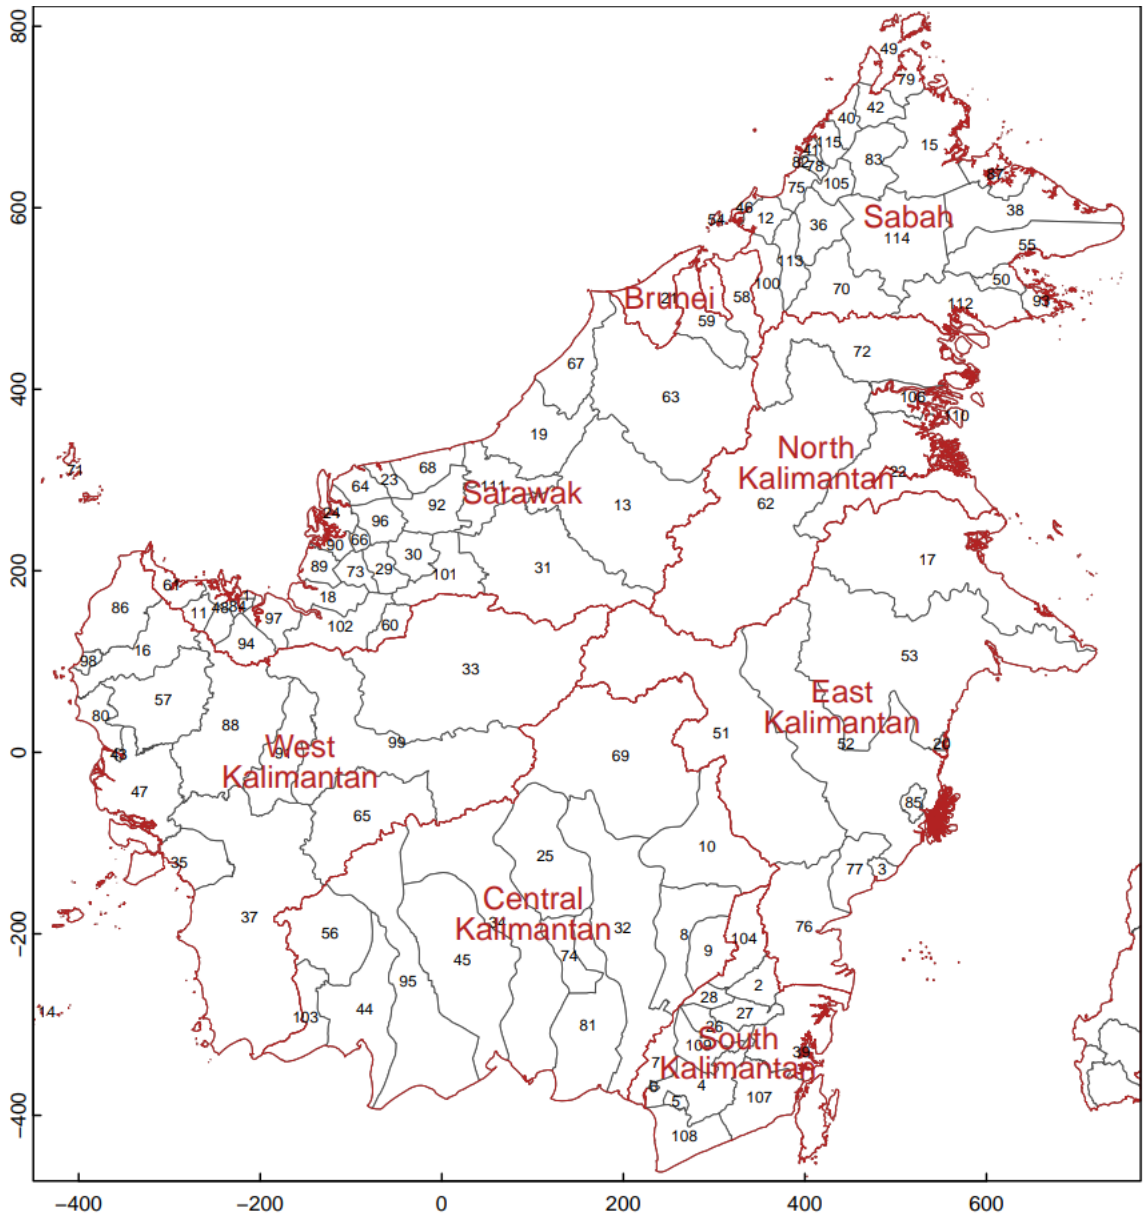

Figure S2. Map of country, province and district names in Borneo. The red labels show the location of Brunei and the provinces of Malaysian and Indonesian Borneo. The black numbers label the individual districts used in mortality reporting and Table S1 provides matching district names. The map units are kilometres and the map uses the UTM50N projection.

Table S1. District name gazetteer for Borneo. See Figure S1 for the locations of each district. The code numbers are ordered by alphabetic district name.
