
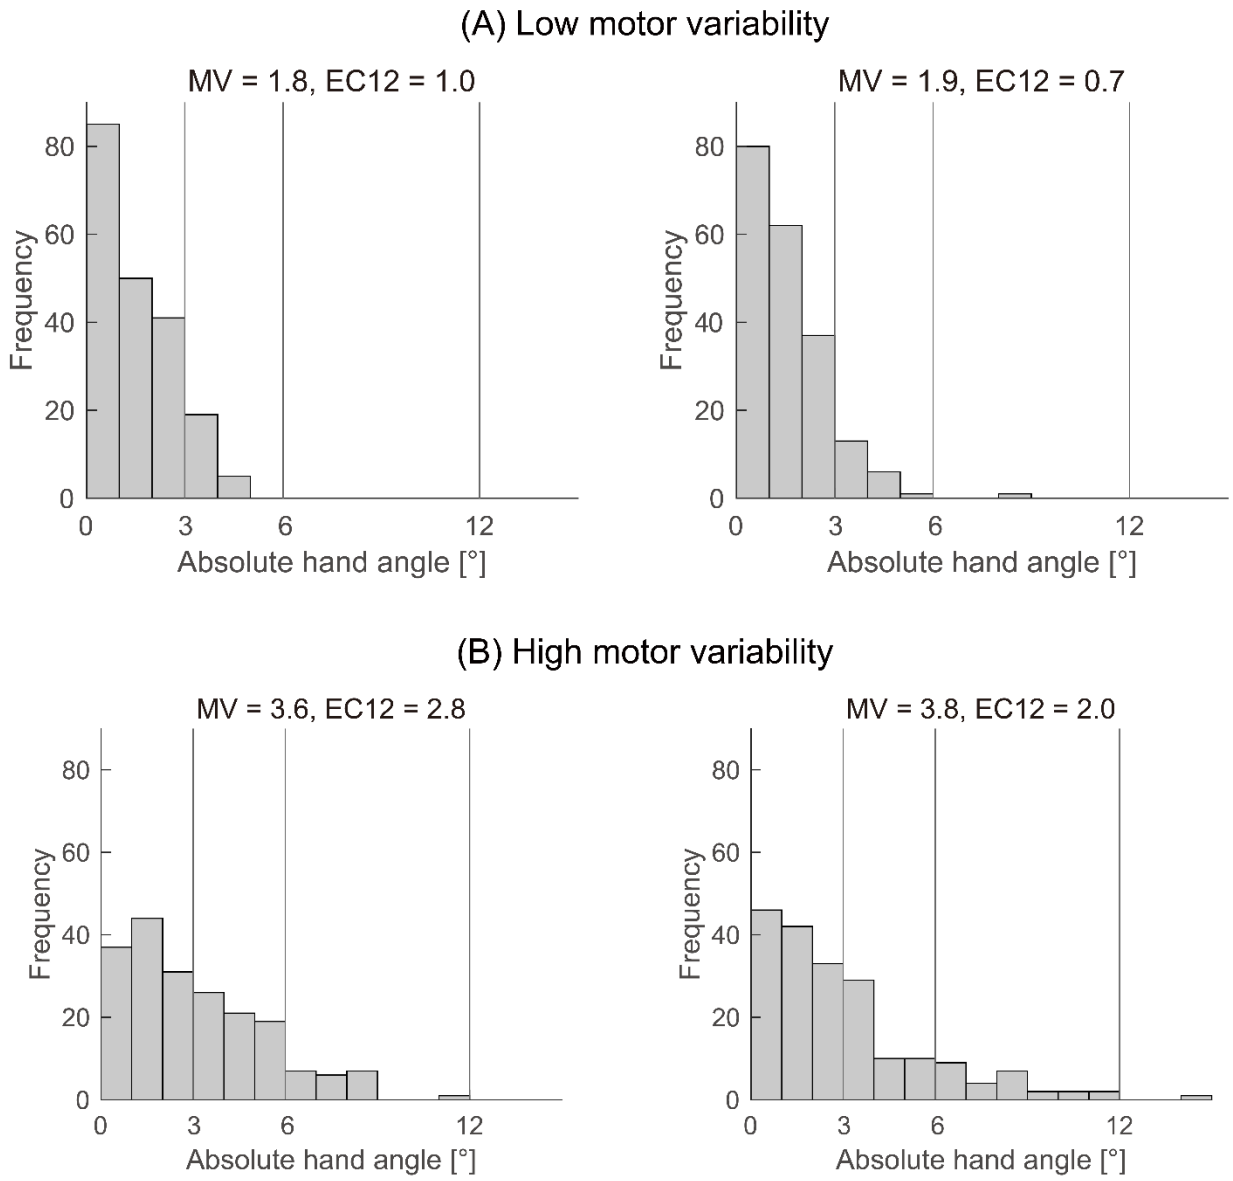

Figure S2. Absolute hand angle in the baseline phase. Representative participants with (A) low and (B) high motor variability. The histograms show that participants with high variability tend to have a wide distribution of the absolute hand angle in the baseline phase. MV and EC12 represent motor variability in the baseline phase and error correction for 12° absolute error, respectively.