Figure S1. Relationship between the subject-averaged classification accuracies of the 23 deep learning models obtained under the pooled 10-fold cross-validation (y-axis) and under the original training and test session split (x-axis). Each point denotes one model, and the dashed line is the ordinary-least-squares regression line. The Pearson and Spearman correlation coefficients computed across the 23 models are reported in the inset.

