

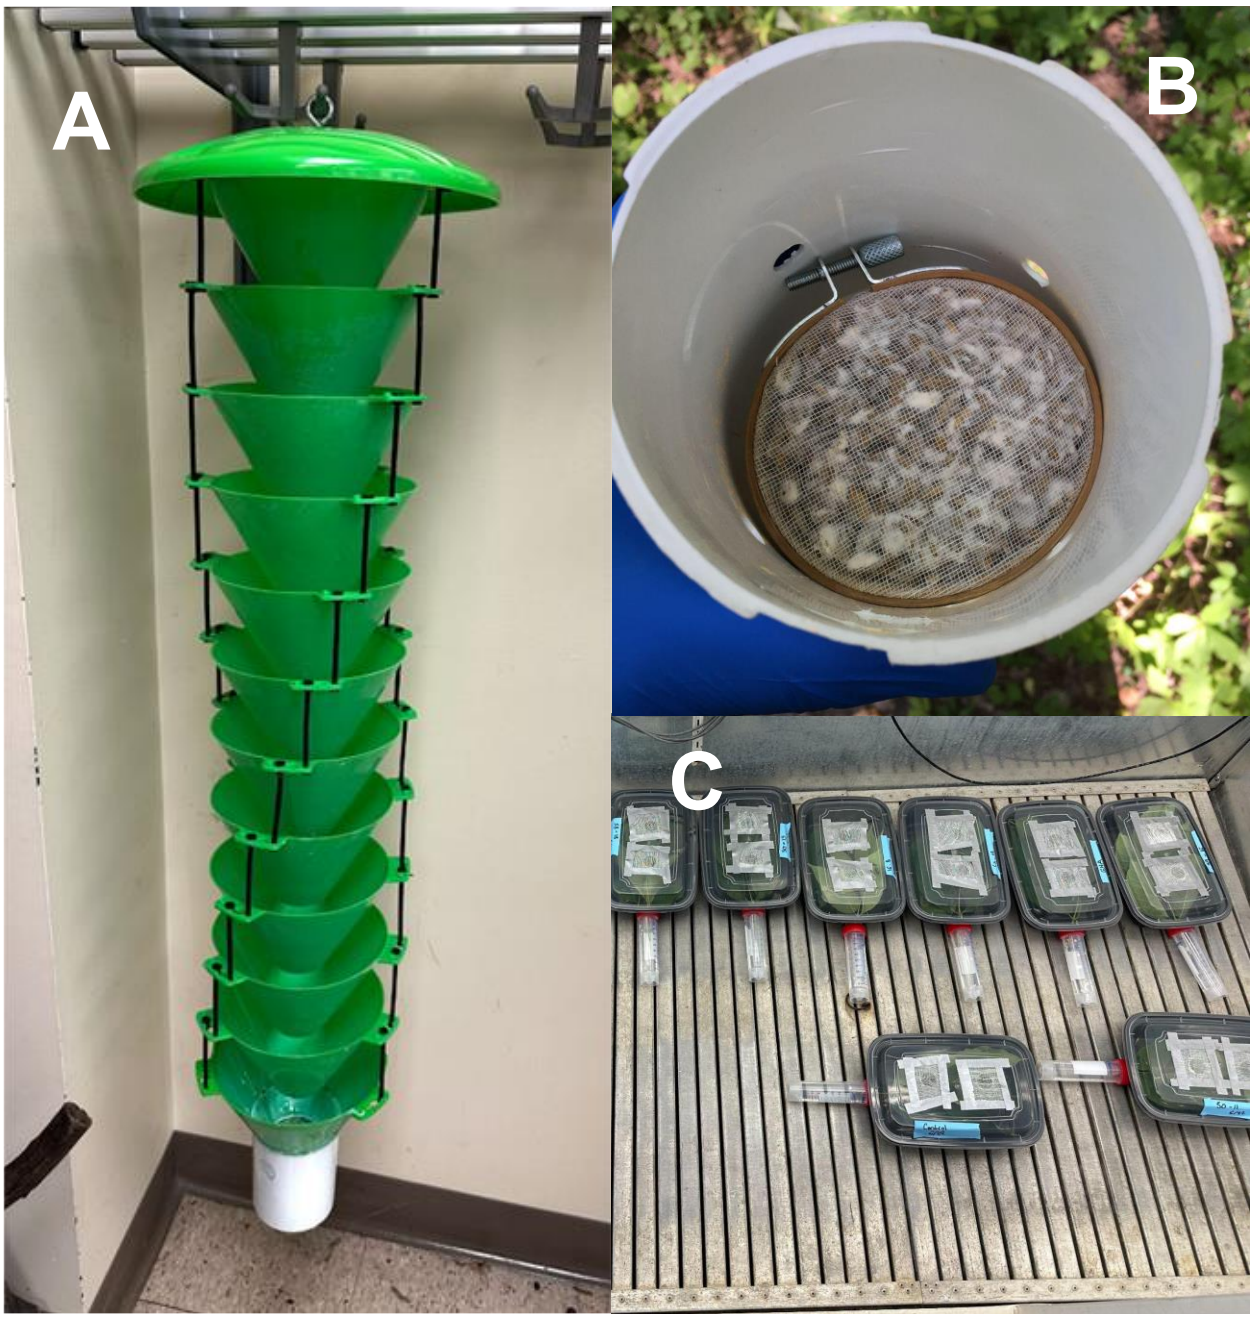

Figure S1. Experimental procedure. Emerald ash borer beetles were dropped down an autodissemination device (A) into a collection cup containing an inoculum pouch of entomopathogenic fungus (B). Beetles were then placed in incubation containers and kept within an environmental growth chamber (C).