

Figure S1. H₂S accumulation in the gas phase of E. coli wt and mutant strains. Shown are samples of lead acetate-soaked paper strips after successive 30-minute exposures (left) or 2-hour exposure (right) over the surface of cultures growing in LB medium. For each time point, the corresponding value of the optical density of the culture (OD₆₀₀) is indicated.