Figure S1. Using NbClust to identify the best number of clusters for k-means clustering. X-axis represents the number of clusters; y-axis represents of the number of criteria to support the number of clusters by NbClust package.