MDPI Books

Pre-Submission Guide for Scholarly Open Access Book Authors

Submit your proposal at mdpi.com/books/publish-with-us/book-proposal or email us at bksubmission@mdpi.com

MDPI

Pre-Submission Step-by-Step Guide

1 Secure Funding	Find funding for your book project by following the steps on our funding page. mdpi.com/books/publish-with-us/funding
2 Submit Book Proposal Form	Submit your book proposal on our website and provide a thorough answer to each question for us to best evaluate the proposed work. mdpi.com/books/publish-with-us/book-proposal
3 Proposal Review	We will carefully review your answers with the support of external experts in the respective field and get in touch with you with further questions or a decision on whether or not the proposal is accepted.
4 Agreement	Once the proposal is accepted, we will send you a publication agreement outlining the terms and conditions of the publication process.
5 Manuscript Preparation	Familiarize yourself with our Manuscript Guidelines. Adhering to these guidelines will increase the chances of your manuscript being accepted after peer review and minimize delays. mdpi.com/books/publish-with-us/guidelines

6 Collaborate Closely with Co-Authors	Start collaborating early with co-authors to ensure their contributions are properly acknowledged and smoothly incorporated.
7 Submission Checklist	Before submitting the manuscript, use the Submission Checklist (see next page) to ensure the guidelines have been followed and all necessary elements are included.
8 Register	Register online with our MDPI book submission system BJAMS, using your institutional email to conveniently submit and track the progress of your manuscripts online. If you already have an MDPI SuSy account, you automatically have access to BJAMS. mdpibooks.jams.pub
9 Submit	Submit your book or chapter through the submission system BJAMS for efficient manuscript processing.

Submission Checklist

- ☐ Have you reviewed our Instructions for Authors? mdpi.com/books/publish-with-us/guidelines
- ☐ Did you download the MDPI Books Microsoft Word template from mdpi.com/books/publish-with-us/guidelines or request the LaTeX template?
- ☐ If English is not your first language, has your manuscript been checked by an English-speaking colleague or a professional editing service? Language editing your manuscript before peer review will improve the chance of receiving a positive assessment. MDPI offers English Language Editing Services at mdpi.com/authors/english.
- ☐ Have you formatted your references, preferably using a bibliography software package like Zotero, in either ACS, APA or Chicago style?
- ☐ Have you provided DOIs for the references when available?
- ☐ Have you formatted figures and tables according to MDPI Books guidelines and clearly stated the source in the caption, including citing any adapted or reproduced material? mdpi.com/books/publish-with-us/guidelines
- ☐ Are all tables and figures mentioned in the text and embedded in the submitted manuscript?
- ☐ Have you prepared a zip folder with all figures in high resolution (minimum 1000 pixels width/height or a resolution of 300 dpi or higher)?
- ☐ Have you obtained written permission for any third-party materials used in your manuscript and saved these to include with your submission?
- ☐ Have you avoided plagiarism (including self-plagiarism) by adhering to citation policies and including all references in the reference section?
- ☐ Have you selected 5-10 appropriate keywords to help us find reviewers and speed up the review process?
- ☐ Is the abstract/description clear enough for potential reviewers to assess if the book/chapter is in their area of expertise?
- ☐ Have you adhered to the word count agreed in the contract or informed the publisher if not?
- ☐ Have you provided the names and affiliations of all co-authors?
- ☐ Have you and all potential co-authors registered with the MDPI Books submission system BJAMS? mdpibooks.jams.pub
- ☐ Have you used your institutional email to register?

Submit a book proposal or manuscript at:
mdpi.com/books/publish-with-us/submit-a-manuscript