Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

We would kindly like to invite you to propose a paper for a Special Issue, titled “Entrepreneurial Intentions–Taking in the Context”.

Entrepreneurial intention is seen as the first step in the entrepreneurial process (Liñán and Chen 2009), and research on entrepreneurial intention has gained wide interest among scholars during the past 20 years (Kolvereid 1996; Krueger et al. 2000; Fayolle and Liñán 2014; Kautonen et al. 2015). In today’s world, our reasons for caring about entrepreneurial intentions are weightier than ever. Entrepreneurship is needed at the societal level, to provide a drive for combating global threats, and at the individual level, to cope with the increasingly turbulent environment. To inform both policy-making and education, we need a better understanding of what causes a person to become an entrepreneur.

For this Special Issue, we seek qualitative and quantitative empirical research studies. We also welcome literature reviews that notably contribute to existing understanding.
