Message from the Guest Editor

To be all inclusive and include papers on a wide variety of issues, international entrepreneurship in this Special Issue is defined as: “the process of an entrepreneur conducting business activities across national boundaries”.

This “crossing” can be looked in several ways:

- comparing entrepreneurs in different countries;
- analyzing aspects of international entrepreneurship, such as culture, entrepreneurial characteristics, organizational form and size, international market selection and entry strategy, political and economic systems and barriers that impact international entrepreneurship;
- developing and/or using theories to look at various aspects of international entrepreneurship; or
- approaching international entrepreneurship from various discipline perspectives providing a different view at the phenomenon.
