Public Sector Innovation: Strategies and Best Practices

Message from the Guest Editor

We invite researchers, policymakers, and practitioners to submit papers exploring innovative approaches in the public sector. This Special Issue seeks to examine strategies, frameworks, and best practices that drive public-sector innovation in the context of rapidly evolving governance mechanisms. As governments face mounting pressures from global challenges, such as climate change, digital transformation, and economic inequality, the need for innovative solutions has never been more urgent. In this Special Issue, original research articles and reviews are welcome. Research areas may include (but are not limited to) the following:

- Emerging technologies in public-sector innovation.
- Organizational culture and leadership in fostering innovation.
- Citizen engagement and participatory governance.
- Policy frameworks and regulatory adaptations for innovation.
- Case studies on successful public-sector transformation.
- Barriers and enablers to implementing innovative practices.

I look forward to receiving your contributions.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Welcome to Administrative Sciences, the journal aims to advance and communicate knowledge concerning management theory and practice both in public administration and in profit organizations; it encourages submissions that build on interdisciplinary research in related fields, such as business, economics, political science, gender studies, psychology, sociology, physiology, communication theory or artificial intelligence and their implications on management, organizations and the society. Join us on a journey through the Administrative Sciences, where management merges with innovation.
