

Special Issue

Dialogue between Tourism and Well-Being

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue aims to provide a platform for the rigorous exploration and discussion of the multifaceted relationship between tourism and well-being, spanning various disciplines and perspectives.

- The impact of tourism on individual well-being, including physical health, mental health and subjective well-being;
- The role of tourism in fostering community well-being, social cohesion and cultural preservation;
- Strategies for promoting sustainable and responsible tourism practices that enhance well-being for both tourists and host communities;
- The intersection of tourism, well-being and environmental sustainability, including issues of climate change, biodiversity conservation and natural resource management;
- Innovative approaches and technologies for measuring and evaluating the well-being impacts of tourism.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Welcome to Administrative Sciences, the journal aims to advance and communicate knowledge concerning management theory and practice both in public administration and in profit organizations; it encourages submissions that build on interdisciplinary research in related fields, such as business, economics, political science, gender studies, psychology, sociology, physiology, communication theory or artificial intelligence and their implications on management, organizations and the society. Join us on a journey through the Administrative Sciences, where management merges with innovation.
