

Special Issue

Emerging Trends in Employee Green Behavior and Organizational Impact

Message from the Guest Editors

In light of the pressing global imperative to foster sustainable workplaces, this Special Issue—“Emerging Trends in Employee Green Behavior and Organizational Impact”—invites advanced scholarly contributions examining how organizational contexts influence, enable, and are shaped by environmentally responsible employee actions. By spotlighting the interaction between employee-driven eco-initiatives and organizational outcomes, this Special Issue seeks to bridge the personal and institutional levels of environmental engagement, supporting the evolution of greener organizations and more sustainable human resource practices.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Welcome to Administrative Sciences, the journal aims to advance and communicate knowledge concerning management theory and practice both in public administration and in profit organizations; it encourages submissions that build on interdisciplinary research in related fields, such as business, economics, political science, gender studies, psychology, sociology, physiology, communication theory or artificial intelligence and their implications on management, organizations and the society. Join us on a journey through the Administrative Sciences, where management merges with innovation.
