Artificial Intelligence and Entrepreneurship: Challenges and Opportunities

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue seeks to advance scholarly understanding of how organizations can strategically leverage GenAI to accelerate entrepreneurial processes while effectively managing associated risks. We welcome empirical studies, theoretical contributions, and systematic reviews that address the multifaceted relationship of GenAI with entrepreneurial ecosystems and processes. In this Special Issue, original research articles and reviews are welcome. Research areas may include (but are not limited to) the following:

- GenAI's role in democratizing venture creation and reducing early-stage capital barriers.
- AI's impact on enterprise productivity, sustainable performance, and organizational design.
- Human–AI collaboration in creativity, ideation, and mitigating cognitive biases.
- The emergence of AI-native business models and strategies for sustainable competitive advantage.
- Governance frameworks, risk management, and regulatory challenges in AI deployment.

We look forward to your contributions to this important and timely discourse.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Welcome to Administrative Sciences, the journal aims to advance and communicate knowledge concerning management theory and practice both in public administration and in profit organizations; it encourages submissions that build on interdisciplinary research in related fields, such as business, economics, political science, gender studies, psychology, sociology, physiology, communication theory or artificial intelligence and their implications on management, organizations and the society. Join us on a journey through the Administrative Sciences, where management merges with innovation.
