Dynamics of Interorganisational Collaborative Relationships

Message from the Guest Editor

A Special Issue will be prepared for Administrative Sciences that has, as a theme, the dynamics of interorganizational collaborative relationships. We invite papers that focus on understanding the relational processes that arise when multiple organizations develop and realize a joint goal. These organizations have to work with their differences regarding their organizational interests, identities, perspectives, power positions, etc. Individuals representing their constituencies thus have to deal with all kinds of social complexities and ambiguities, giving rise to relational dynamics around (dis)trust and its development, changing emotional climates, conflict dynamics, negotiation processes, identity work, social influence processes, leadership practices, etc. We invite papers from various disciplines, such as psychology, sociology, organization theory, policy sciences or combinations thereof. Contributions can be theoretical and/or empirical. Papers with an intervention focus are also welcomed.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Welcome to Administrative Sciences, the journal aims to advance and communicate knowledge concerning management theory and practice both in public administration and in profit organizations; it encourages submissions that build on interdisciplinary research in related fields, such as business, economics, political science, gender studies, psychology, sociology, physiology, communication theory or artificial intelligence and their implications on management, organizations and the society. Join us on a journey through the Administrative Sciences, where management merges with innovation.
