Doing Business under 'The New Normal': Challenges and Opportunities

Message from the Guest Editors

New challenges are shaping today's society, specifically individuals and organizations. Climate change, poverty, hunger, and digitalization are persistent issues, while emerging crises, such as COVID-19 and the Ukraine war, have just begun. The transition to a "new normal" has set new discussion points regarding adjustment and resilience and shaping new organizational behaviors.

Theoretical, conceptual, and empirical contributions exploring the "New Normal" for businesses are welcome. This Special Issue aims to discuss the most important business and organizational implications of this "New Normal" and the challenges that public and private organizations will face in the coming years.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Welcome to Administrative Sciences, the journal aims to advance and communicate knowledge concerning management theory and practice both in public administration and in profit organizations; it encourages submissions that build on interdisciplinary research in related fields, such as business, economics, political science, gender studies, psychology, sociology, physiology, communication theory or artificial intelligence and their implications on management, organizations and the society. Join us on a journey through the Administrative Sciences, where management merges with innovation.

Editor-in-Chief
