Green Leadership and Change Management: Driving Sustainability Initiatives

Message from the Guest Editors

We invite scholars, practitioners, and policymakers to contribute original research articles that address the following sub-themes and key questions, including but not limited to the following:

- Theoretical and empirical advancements in green leadership and sustainable change management.
- The role of ESG principles in shaping corporate and public-sector sustainability strategies.
- Organizational change processes and leadership challenges in adopting green initiatives.
- Public administration and policy implementation in enforcing sustainability regulations.
- Digital transformation and technology-enabled sustainability solutions.
- Corporate social responsibility (CSR) and stakeholder engagement in sustainability.
- The impact of green governance frameworks on organizational and institutional transformation.
- Case studies of successful sustainability initiatives across industries and public institutions.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Welcome to Administrative Sciences, the journal aims to advance and communicate knowledge concerning management theory and practice both in public administration and in profit organizations; it encourages submissions that build on interdisciplinary research in related fields, such as business, economics, political science, gender studies, psychology, sociology, physiology, communication theory or artificial intelligence and their implications on management, organizations and the society. Join us on a journey through the Administrative Sciences, where management merges with innovation.
