

Special Issue

Innovation in Nonprofit Organizations

Message from the Guest Editor

We invite submissions of papers to this Special Issue that extend and advance our understanding of innovations in nonprofit organizations. Empirical as well as conceptual papers are welcome. We are especially interested in contributions in areas that include, but are not limited to:

- Innovation and organizational performance
- Organizational and environmental factors related to different types of innovations
- Governance and innovation
- Philanthropy and innovation
- Innovation scaling: success stories and failures
- An organization's capacity for innovation: Examples and effectiveness of capacity building methods and approaches
- Partnerships and innovation
- Testing innovation theories across different cultural contexts
- Technology and innovation
- The dark side of innovation

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Welcome to Administrative Sciences, the journal aims to advance and communicate knowledge concerning management theory and practice both in public administration and in profit organizations; it encourages submissions that build on interdisciplinary research in related fields, such as business, economics, political science, gender studies, psychology, sociology, physiology, communication theory or artificial intelligence and their implications on management, organizations and the society. Join us on a journey through the Administrative Sciences, where management merges with innovation.
