

Special Issue

From Organizational Leadership to Lead Organizations—The Future of Leadership in Interorganizational Networks

Message from the Guest Editor

Leadership of inter-organizational networks is firstly not about organizational leadership but about an organization that leads. In the current special issue, we may contribute to the following related concepts: decision-making processes, network outcomes, monitoring-controlling behaviors, collaboration, network structures, governability & accountability and cultural diversity.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Welcome to Administrative Sciences, the journal aims to advance and communicate knowledge concerning management theory and practice both in public administration and in profit organizations; it encourages submissions that build on interdisciplinary research in related fields, such as business, economics, political science, gender studies, psychology, sociology, physiology, communication theory or artificial intelligence and their implications on management, organizations and the society. Join us on a journey through the Administrative Sciences, where management merges with innovation.
