Innovation Management of Organizations in the Digital Age

Message from the Guest Editors

In this Special Issue, we are seeking submissions that outline and discuss both challenges and opportunities that digital transformation creates for innovation management of organizations, from both theoretical and practical perspectives. Relevant topics might include but are not limited to:

- Theorizing innovation management of organizations in the digital era;
- Stakeholder engagement in digital innovation management;
- Open innovation and digital transformation;
- Barriers of organizational innovation management in the digital age;
- The effects of digital transformation on business model innovation;
- New approaches of innovation management to facilitate digital transformation, such as living labs;
- The impact of digital technology on early-stage innovations (i.e., prototyping);
- Digitalization and automation value in the public sector;
- Innovation management within federated networks.

We look forward to receiving your submissions for this Special Issue to address these topics and more.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Welcome to Administrative Sciences, the journal aims to advance and communicate knowledge concerning management theory and practice both in public administration and in profit organizations; it encourages submissions that build on interdisciplinary research in related fields, such as business, economics, political science, gender studies, psychology, sociology, physiology, communication theory or artificial intelligence and their implications on management, organizations and the society. Join us on a journey through the Administrative Sciences, where management merges with innovation.
