

Special Issue

Women in Business

Message from the Guest Editors

A Special Issue will be prepared for Administrative Sciences that has, as a theme, women in business. We invite papers that focus on understanding the peculiarities of female entrepreneurs and managers in terms of propensity to innovation, approach to creativity, decision making, resilience, networking and co-creation. Specifically, contributions may focus on, but are not limited to, issues and topics such as:

- Female entrepreneurship challenges in traditional and new sectors such as green economy, big data management and social media
- Women's participation in the ownership, management and leadership of family business
- Women in boards and their impact on boards dynamics and effectiveness
- Women in management, relational capital and business networking
- Diversity and gender inequalities in the light of the new challenges of the fourth industrial revolution.

Studies from different theoretical perspectives, research disciplines and with different methodological or interdisciplinary approaches are welcome.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Welcome to Administrative Sciences, the journal aims to advance and communicate knowledge concerning management theory and practice both in public administration and in profit organizations; it encourages submissions that build on interdisciplinary research in related fields, such as business, economics, political science, gender studies, psychology, sociology, physiology, communication theory or artificial intelligence and their implications on management, organizations and the society. Join us on a journey through the Administrative Sciences, where management merges with innovation.
