

Special Issue

Computer Vision and Sensor Networks in Agriculture

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue aims to promote a deeper understanding of major conceptual and technical challenges and to facilitate the spread of recent breakthroughs in sensing, computer vision, data fusion, and integrated sensor networks for smart farming. Topics of interest include but are not limited to the following:

- Computer vision for agricultural automation and robotics;
- Monitoring/decision support systems for crop/livestock management;
- Sensors and computer vision systems for plant phenotyping;
- IoT, big data, and data analytics for smart agriculture;
- IoT-based sensing and computer vision for greenhouses, plant factories, and vertical farms;
- Edge-AI applications for smart farming;
- Edge-Cloud collaborative learning for smart farming;
- AIoT-driven UAV applications for smart farming;
- UAV-based sensing and computer vision for smart farming;

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Agriculture (ISSN 2077-0472) is an international, cross-disciplinary and scholarly journal on the science and technology of crop and animal production, and management of the natural resource base for agricultural production. We invite submissions from authors according to the aims and scope of the journal described in more detail on this page. Agriculture is published in an open access format – articles are published on the journal's website immediately after acceptance, giving the scientific community and the public unlimited and free access to the content.

Editor-in-Chief

Prof. Dr. Les Copeland
