

Special Issue

Crop-Aquatic Animals Co-culturing for Improving Food Yields and Ecological Benefits

Message from the Guest Editors

In this Special Issue, we aim to encourage the submission of high-quality research articles and reviews covering recent advances in new crop/aquatic animal varieties, new co-culture models, biogeochemical cycle, microbial diversity, environmental effect, economic impact, and compensatory policy to improve the food yields and ecological benefits in co-culture systems.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Agronomy draws together researchers from diverse areas of agricultural research with a common aim of enhancing agricultural productivity globally. The journal provides unlimited free access to all those interested in advancing agricultural science from both the research and general community. Papers are released immediately after acceptance through the internet.

Agronomy is supported by our authors and their institutes through low article processing charges (APC) for accepted papers. We hope you will support the journal by becoming one of our authors.
