

Special Issue

Chemical Interference: Key Interaction from an Agroecological Perspective

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue will focus on how biotic interactions and associated interference processes will modify access to resources. This Special Issue welcomes original papers and reviews related to (i) crop managements that have revealed either favored or reduced access to resources through interference processes as well as (ii) mechanisms that fine-tune the coupling of soil resource supply to plant demand, from the cellular to the individual scale. Any mixed-crop systems are welcome for use in illustrating the interference contribution; from annual intercrop to agroforestry through the use of cover crops, and so on.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Agronomy draws together researchers from diverse areas of agricultural research with a common aim of enhancing agricultural productivity globally. The journal provides unlimited free access to all those interested in advancing agricultural science from both the research and general community. Papers are released immediately after acceptance through the internet.

Agronomy is supported by our authors and their institutes through low article processing charges (APC) for accepted papers. We hope you will support the journal by becoming one of our authors.
