

Special Issue

Industrial Waste for Crops Production: Effects on Soil Nutrient Dynamics, Crop Growth and Food Quality

Message from the Guest Editors

Investigating the effects of waste products as a soil amendment on soil physiochemical properties, heavy-metal contamination risks, active microbial communities, nutrient dynamics, soil enzyme activities, plant growth, crop production under controlled environmental and field conditions is imperative to improve soil and crop quality and health. For this Special Issue, submissions on the following topics (but not limited to) are invited:

- Industrial waste as a soil amendment and potting media
- Effect of soil amendments on soil physiochemical properties
- Effect of soil amendments on soil quality and health
- Soil nutrient dynamics and soil fertility
- Effects of soil amendment on crop growth, yield and produce quality
- Heavy metal contamination risk assessment

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Agronomy draws together researchers from diverse areas of agricultural research with a common aim of enhancing agricultural productivity globally. The journal provides unlimited free access to all those interested in advancing agricultural science from both the research and general community. Papers are released immediately after acceptance through the internet.

Agronomy is supported by our authors and their institutes through low article processing charges (APC) for accepted papers. We hope you will support the journal by becoming one of our authors.
