Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

We are pleased to announce a Special Edition of the journal Animals, which we hope will make a major contribution to clinical animal behaviour. Animal behaviour problems are common and arise as a result of multiple and diverse issues, ranging from simple misperceptions of behaviour, to conditioned behaviours and medical issues. The scientific foundations are therefore multidisciplinary, as are the techniques used in diagnosis and treatment. However, these matters are rarely discussed in any depth in the peer reviewed literature. In this Special Issue, we are seeking to bring together the latest thinking on this topic, from theoretical issues to the latest research that challenges and enhances our understanding of the nature, management, and impact of these problems. As a result of the generous sponsorship of Boehringer Ingelheim and Ceva Sante Animale, we are able to waive the normal page processing fee for up to 15 of the manuscripts accepted for publication; further papers will be included in the Special Issue in accordance with the normal terms and conditions of Animals.
