Advances in Exotic Pet Medicine

Message from the Guest Editors

We are pleased to announce the Special Issue of Animals, 'Advances in Exotic Pet Medicine'. This Special Issue aims to bring together relevant publications on various topics related to exotic pet medicine. We welcome original research articles, comprehensive reviews, case series, and communications that enhance our understanding of this field. The scope of this Special Issue includes any important area of medicine and surgery relating to exotic pets, such as the following:

- Clinical pathology;
- Diagnostic imaging;
- Pharmacology;
- Surgery;
- Endoscopy;
- Pathology;
- Clinical trials;
- Case series on a specific disease or syndrome (a minimum of three cases must be included to be considered a case series);
- Clinical cases (one or two clinical cases reporting novel, unique, or rarely reported clinical entities, unusual presentations of established clinical entities, new clinical diagnostic methods, or novel/previously not described treatments and outcomes).

We very much look forward to receiving your contributions.
