

Special Issue

The Response of Wildlife Populations and Communities to Global Change

Message from the Guest Editors

For this Special Issue, we welcome the submission of original research papers that improve our understanding of how wildlife populations and/or communities cope with environmental change, both natural and human-induced. Field studies and review articles that aim to synthesise evidence on this research topic are within the scope of this Special Issue. We encourage and challenge authors to highlight their contribution's relevance to local and global conservation and management issues.
