

Special Issue

New Advance in Electronic Information Security

Message from the Guest Editor

With the development of Internet technology and electronic technology, new products, new industries, and new systems in the field of electronic information have sprung up like mushrooms, changing people's lives and working methods. At the same time, the importance of information security in electronic information technology has become increasingly prominent.

Therefore, this Special Issue is intended for the presentation of new ideas and experimental results in the field of electronic information security from design, service, and theory to its practical use.

- Security design of electronic information systems;
- Information network and social security;
- Electromagnetic radiation information security;
- Aerospace electromagnetic safety;
- Side channel attack and side channel analysis;
- E-commerce security;
- Security strategy;
- Information security organization;
- Asset management security;
- Human resources security;
- Physical and environmental security;
- Communication and operational security;
- Access control security;
- System acquisition, development, and maintenance security;
- Information security incident management;
- Business continuity management.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

As the world of science becomes ever more specialized, researchers may lose themselves in the deep forest of the ever increasing number of subfields being created. This open access journal Applied Sciences has been started to link these subfields, so researchers can cut through the forest and see the surrounding, or quite distant fields and subfields to help develop his/her own research even further with the aid of this multi-dimensional network.
