Advanced Polymeric Coatings and Their Applications

Message from the Guest Editors

Polymeric coatings are a well-established class of materials. Incremental improvements have allowed them to fulfil market demands for almost a century, while the development of various functional coatings has opened the possibility of new niche applications. The drive toward sustainability and ever-stricter regulative requirements brings new challenges to polymeric coatings. Many novel developments are expected, including fundamental advancements in polymer design as well as their implementation in material applications.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

As the world of science becomes ever more specialized, researchers may lose themselves in the deep forest of the ever increasing number of subfields being created. This open access journal Applied Sciences has been started to link these subfields, so researchers can cut through the forest and see the surrounding, or quite distant fields and subfields to help develop his/her own research even further with the aid of this multi-dimensional network.
