

Special Issue

Interdisciplinary Research for Climate Change Adaptation and Resilience Engineering

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue aims to present research advances in climate change adaptation and transformational shifts towards more resilient societies, cities, and infrastructure. We welcome contemporary research on how compounded hazards are exacerbated by climate change, multi-hazard exposure studies on interconnected systems, infrastructure, and urban and rural communities, as well as their dynamics and vulnerability to multi-dimensional components like governance and organizational, physical, financial, human, and societal aspects.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

As the world of science becomes ever more specialized, researchers may lose themselves in the deep forest of the ever increasing number of subfields being created. This open access journal Applied Sciences has been started to link these subfields, so researchers can cut through the forest and see the surrounding, or quite distant fields and subfields to help develop his/her own research even further with the aid of this multi-dimensional network.
