

Special Issue

Ceramic Composites and Films 2020

Message from the Guest Editor

The Special Issue of Applied Sciences, 'Ceramic Composites and Films', has been extended and will be published as 'Ceramic Composites and Films 2020'. In this renewal, we kindly invite further papers on the synthesis, mechanical properties, chemical properties, electric and electronic properties, and other properties of ceramic composites and films. Topics on unique applications and material designs, such as functionally graded materials, porous ceramic composites, smart materials, natural resources, and so on are welcome. In addition to research papers, reviews and overviews will also be accepted to provide context for ceramics research, including the history, current situation, and future prospects of ceramic composites and films. By extending the Special Issue in this way, we seek to provide a platform for those involved in ceramic materials research, that can inspire further projects and investigations.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

As the world of science becomes ever more specialized, researchers may lose themselves in the deep forest of the ever increasing number of subfields being created. This open access journal Applied Sciences has been started to link these subfields, so researchers can cut through the forest and see the surrounding, or quite distant fields and subfields to help develop his/her own research even further with the aid of this multi-dimensional network.
