Waste Recycling Materials and Technologies: Latest Advances and Prospects

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue, "Waste Recycling Materials and Technologies: Latest Advances and Prospects", is dedicated to exploring the latest developments in material recycling and associated technologies. It covers a broad spectrum of topics, including innovations in waste processing, the conversion of waste into useful resources, and strategies for environmental sustainability. This collection contributes to the field with research articles, comprehensive reviews, and case studies that highlight best practices and technological advances. This publication is an essential platform for academics, engineers, and industry professionals interested in the most advanced and promising solutions for waste management and circular economy. It also provides insights into future challenges and opportunities in the field of recycling and material reuse.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

As the world of science becomes ever more specialized, researchers may lose themselves in the deep forest of the ever increasing number of subfields being created. This open access journal Applied Sciences has been started to link these subfields, so researchers can cut through the forest and see the surrounding, or quite distant fields and subfields to help develop his/her own research even further with the aid of this multi-dimensional network.
