

Special Issue

New Insights in Oral Health and Diets

Message from the Guest Editors

The Special Issue will incorporate articles of modern diet perspectives and coaching approaches that lead to new dietary habits. Suggestions for the food industry that will help toward better food choices for the geriatric and adult population will also be outlined. The link between industry, the medical and dental practitioner, and the consumer-patient will be explored in a more productive collaboration from every aspect. Highlights:

- Oral health coaching and communication strategies on diet;
- Nutritional aspects of modern societies for the geriatric and adult population;
- Malnutrition and oral health status;
- Industry approaches to modern packaging and dosage of food related to population needs.

The aim of this Special Issue is to attract papers in the general area of food industry and geriatric and adult dietary intake philosophy as well as counseling and coaching processing techniques and values for healthier diets. Keywords: oral health coaching; malnutrition; innovative food products; processing; geriatric population; nutritional aspects

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

As the world of science becomes ever more specialized, researchers may lose themselves in the deep forest of the ever increasing number of subfields being created. This open access journal Applied Sciences has been started to link these subfields, so researchers can cut through the forest and see the surrounding, or quite distant fields and subfields to help develop his/her own research even further with the aid of this multi-dimensional network.
